I was born in Kingsbridge and attended local schools. I worked in the City of London as a Marine Cargo Broker at Lloyds of London. I read History and Politics at Exeter University, as a mature student, and then trained as a Desk Editor for David & Charles publishers in Newton Abbot. I returned to Kingsbridge and married Richard Balkwill, a local veterinary surgeon, from Aveton Gifford. I have two school-age children and am very interested in activities for youth in our area. We run a veterinary practice and I am well acquainted with the difficulties facing small businesses. I am particularly interested in issues such as the environment and affordable housing for our young people and will do my best to articulate the wishes of the people of Kingsbridge.
